

I support portability of cell phone numbers completely. I would be WILLING TO TESTIFY in the event you need that too. About a year ago I was finally able to transfer my local phone service to another carrier and I have better than halved my monthly phone bill. The ONLY reason I am staying with my current carrier for cell phones is that I am being held hostage by the fact that I would have to change my number in order to do so. Cingular doesn't own the number anymore than I do and it should be movable in order to facilitate competition in the cellular industry as with hard line phones. Put them on a level playing field. Thank you!
